- I loved this class. It was probably my favorite course that I have taken in my three and a half years here at Carolina.
- This was an absolutely wonderful course: I just wish it was NOT a THREE HOUR SEMINAR AT THE WORST POSSIBLE TIMING. MUST BE A TWICE OR THRICE A WEEK CLASS. The professor is really great, an incredibly passionate and youthful. However, he doesn't know how to handle participation-he wants us to participate but also rushes through the material!
- This is the best taught, most engaging, and intellectually stimulating course I have ever taken. Seriously.
- Professor Meier is the most passionate teacher I've ever had. If I scheduled office hours at 4am in a blizzard, he'd probably come. Very intelligent and informative, a leading expert in his field.
- Dr. Meier was amazing; easily the best college instructor I've ever had. He was very passionate and enthusiastic about the class and it showed in every class.
- I've enjoyed this course. The topics were interesting and the reading assignments (although heavy) really helped me understand class lectures. Only complaint is that 3 hours of mostly lecturing is entirely too long.
- As per request, I will be sure to refer to Professor Meier in all future correspondence as 'Big Papa.'
- I think collaborating with student presenters for a 'Glee' type ensemble performance prior to presentations would make for a much livelier break period and energize students to push through the final 30 minutes.
- A pair of shorts could go a long way in playing down Professor Meier's elitist tendencies - for pete's sake when it's 95 degrees in August thrown on some seersucker.
- Move on big guy, you're better than her. But if you still feel like you can't move on, maybe you could try a goatee out for size.
- And thanks for the advice, after much contemplation I've called off my engagement to the rebound.
- Great course. Only complaint is the 3-hour time block. Two shorter classes would be easier to manage.
- One of the most interesting classes I have taken. The jokes are great. Will be even better when the class is twice a week.
- Loved this course. Felt that it really introduced a broad spectrum of human rights to the students and got them to think critically about the issues at hand.
- As a 500 level seminar class, my only suggestion would be more time for discussion. I think the lecture format is good, but it should not be one three hour block if that is the desired format.
- the PPT presentations were exciting and pulled together the readings well. would have liked to have a shorter lecture so there was more time for the group presentations.
- Make the assigned reading shorter.
- Great course, great professor.
